Celebrating 50 Years of Crittenton Services for Children and Families
1966 - 2016

Year In Review

Fiscal Year April 2015 – March 2016

Residential
Based Services

Children and youth who can't be safely placed with their biological family receive trauma-informed therapeutic interventions, and culturally and gender specific care plans during their short-term stay at Crittenton. These intensive mental health services are designed to help empower our clients during their transition back into their communities or during their emancipation process.

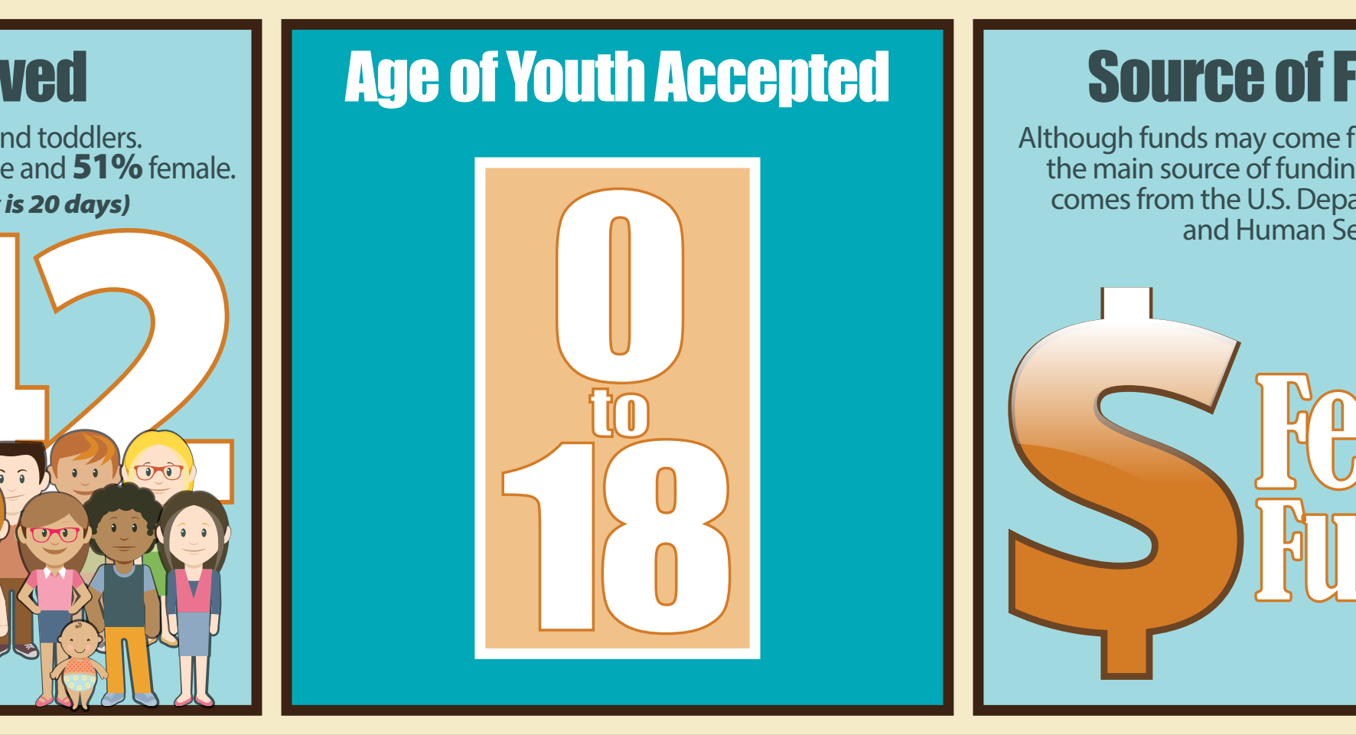
Connecting Youth to Permanent Homes

At our main shelter in Orange County displaced children and youth are given shelter services for up to 20 days that include: housing, medical, food, and mental health services



Crittenton will use every resource available to reunite or connect children and youth with their relatives or caring adults throughout the United States in order to achieve well-being and stability for those in our care.

Family
Based Services

Children, youth and families in crisis who require additional social services supports via court approval or an inter-agency placement receive trauma-informed, culturally and gender appropriate in-home or outpatient therapeutic services. This can include family counseling, mental health services, case management, and community resource connections.
